

Fifteen Principles for Reading to Children Who Are Deaf/Hard of Hearing

About

Unlock the power of interactive reading for children who are deaf/hard of hearing (DHH)! Looking for fresh, effective ways to make reading time truly engaging? Join us for a dynamic presentation featuring 15 proven principles for reading aloud with children who are DHH, adapted from strategies used by parents who are DHH themselves. Discover how bilingual engagement in American Sign Language (ASL) and English can transform literacy development, and learn practical techniques like expressive signing, storytelling variation, roleplay, and real-world connections. These research-backed strategies don't just make reading fun—they build a strong foundation for language and literacy success.

Audience:

This webinar is for adult family members of children in Michigan who are DHH.
